

ABSTRACT

The present invention is based on the finding that two fimbrial structures are 5 specific for Salmonella enterica subspecies I bacteria. Due to their specificity they can be used to provide vaccines against Salmonella enterica subspecies I as well as for detection of Salmonella enterica subspecies I.